ROLLS-ROYCE

Rolls-Royce has long been distinguished by the concept of “waft,” a neologism describing effortless movement through space. The Goodwood brand’s latest exploration of this theme is the Black Badge Spectre, an opulent two-door that happens to be powered entirely by electrons. While it claims 650 horsepower and an earth-twisting 793 lb-ft of torque, the main attraction is how elegantly it hustles its heft. Eerily smooth, quiet, and insulated, the Black Badge brings an incrementally tauter driving experience without verging on brutishness or ungainliness.

RESCHIO

Connect with the centuries-old art of fine lettering at Reschio's three-day Calligraphy Retreat, held August 18-20 and December 5-7. Guests stay in a 1,000-year-old castle hotel on a family-owned estate in the serene Umbrian hills and are guided by expert calligraphers through scripts spanning classical to contemporary styles. Expect to master delicate strokes, learn the structure of historic alphabets, and create personalized works using traditional tools. Each session takes place in an atmospheric location such as the Old Stables, combining craftsmanship with calm. From $5,689, reschio.com

MARMI

How do you transform the two most important rooms in your home? With Marmi bathtubs for the ultimate ritual (from $43,000) and configurable chef's kitchen islands (from $145,000). The 60-year-old company from Egypt, where the art of stonework was first developed and refined, was built on quarrying and distributing natural stone, including the distinctive Red Sea Collection. Today, it sources the natural stone from mountaintop quarries in Italy, mineral spring deposits in Mexico, natural terrain and rolling hills in Portugal, and Moroccan cities, and works with top designers and architects to make your home dreams come true. marmistone.com

RICK OWENS

The Fontainebleau Las Vegas has added fashion designer Rick Owens to its upscale retail collection that is also home to Maison Alaïa, Alexander Wang, Missoni, and The Webster. Just head to the Bleau Galerie for the all-new, cutting-edge Hollywood collection featuring the brand's signature silhouettes for silk chiffon and tulle capes, in addition to transposable zipped jackets, goddess gowns cut in denim with tarnished gold megacrust coating, and black leather art deco crowns. fontainebleaulasvegas.com
